

Course description:

Since the academic year 2013/14 the subject of programming, so far occurring in versions L and M, is replaced by two separate items:

- Programming method - the subject of studies compulsory 1 degree (the type of O1) assigned to the 2nd semester;
- The semantics of programming languages - optional type item I2 belonging to the replacement Programming (M). Since 2013/14 Programming (M) will not appear on offer studies, but replacements will be present this subject. Their credit provides the same "profit" (especially studies 2nd stage), and a credit substitutes other items such O2.M.

Subject programming methods It belongs to the group of compulsory subjects and the program is part of the curriculum. Therefore, the current version is reproduced in the study program on the website of the Institute Infotmatyki. Note: the older the subject of study programs may be all the time under the name of Programming (L).
